

SEE YA MAÑANA!

This new Baja California-inspired restaurant in Nomad puts a plant-centric twist on contemporary Mexican fare. Executive chef Carlos Chavarria's vibrant menu at seeyamañana spotlights fruits, herbs, and veggies along with pole-caught fish and free-grazed meat dishes. Stuffed poblano tacos, Brussels sprouts black habanero salsa tostadas, and infladitas with shredded jackfruit tinga are a few vegan favorites. Pair the bright flavors with botanical infused highball cocktails and frozen margaritas. The casual space has a lived-in feel, decorated with natural materials, woven art, desert plants, and worn tile. 49 W 27th Street, seeyamananany.com

Rimowa's new retail flagship store in SoHo offers the German luggage brand's contemporary collections alongside a selection of vintage cases from Rimowa's archives in Cologne. Designed by MA-MA and Mass Studio, the 800-square-foot space incorporates cantilevered display tables and movable shelving for a dynamic and flexible environment, with materials like brushed aluminum and polycarbonate complementing Rimowa's renowned suitcase design. The Rimowa Passport Studio photobooth offers adjustable seating and flattering lighting, allowing for a completely private experience, specializing in 2"x2" U.S. passport portraits, with physical photos printed on the spot. There's even an exclusive luggage sticker honoring the vibrant SoHo neighborhood available for purchase in-store. 99 Prince Street, rimowa.com

THE BEAUTIFUL AND THE BOLD

SoHo welcomed an edgy newcomer to its eclectic shopping district in August. RTA, the luxury-hip fashion brand from Los Angeles, opened its first East Coast store, and the moody atmosphere perfectly captures the label's rebellious spirit. Fiery red lighting illuminates the racks of sleek separates for men and women, from vegan leather shirt jackets and distressed bodysuits for her to striped pajama-style button-downs and luxe leather track shorts for him. Newcomers, be sure to check out the store's Skin collection, featuring a high-end ensemble of everyday necessities like bodysuits, leggings, shorts, and tanks in stretch cotton. The opening marks the third store for the 2017 CFDA/Vogue Fashion Fund finalist, joining L.A. and Vegas. 5 Mercer Street, rtabrand.com

INSIDE OUT FACIAL

Busy New Yorkers and visitors can now address skincare concerns inside and out with a dual facial and IV therapy combination treatment at ReBalance

Integrative Medicine and Anti-Aging Center in Midtown. ReBalance co-owner Dr. Natalya Fazylova has partnered with Repêchage, a leader in sustainably harvested, seaweed-based skincare, to launch this new series of facials with customized IV drip infusions. Whether you're looking to reduce inflammation, clear blemishes, or boost collagen production, you're in and out in just an hour with a revitalized glow. The Repêchage Biolight facial and Revita-Glow glutathione IV drip is especially powerful, offering a glowing, red carpet-ready complexion before a big event. 635 Madison Avenue, #1400, rebalancenyc.com

PLANT POWERED

A former parfumerie in SoHo is now a healthy haven for matcha lattes, mushroom mochas, kava chocolate, vegan confections, and state-changing botanical elixirs. The Alchemist's Kitchen has evolved from its genesis as a destination for CBD to a broader exploration of the medicinal power of plants. Stop for a refreshment like rose geranium sparkling water during a day of shopping and browse the teas, tinctures, and herbal skincare options in the apothecary-inspired retail space. First-timers should take a seat at the bar and sample a plant alchemy flight, a series of four custom blends designed to enhance immunity, boost brain power, unleash joy, and bolster the spirit. 119 Crosby Street, thealchemistskitchen.com
